

Thursday Evening,
February fourteenth 56th letter.

Beloved,

Why if this
isn't Valentine's Day,
February fourteenth!!
It's the first time I have thought a word about it. Well, I am not going to ask you
to be my own dear Valentine, for you are

that already. Aren't^{2.}
you, darling? But

Here's a wireless telegram
That I will send to you.
I'm in love with you – I am, - I love you 'Deed I do.

Apologies to William.
I had a very nice
time at club meeting

yesterday. It met at Madelyn Fitz's home
on Fairmount Avenue.
As soon as I finished your letter, I went down town (ten o'clock). Did Red Cross work until one,
then went over to the Y.W.C.A. for a bite to eat, and arrived at the meeting at two thirty.
The usual programme followed. Last night
Peggy Townley came around.

This morning I got up at six thirty. Performed my usual duties, and then studied the rest of the morning. Right after luncheon I met Maud. We went to the Red Cross Rooms, and made surgical dressings. She came home with me for dinner, and stayed until nine o'clock. Then I translated a chapter in my French Reader – l'acte premier de "Le Voyage di Monsieur Perrichon," a little play by Labiche and Martin. C'est interessant.

Next will be my two chapters in the Bible, and then off to Dreamland.

Good night, my own darling boy.

Kisses, and hugs, and LOVE !!!!!

P.S.

I just happened to remember that I didn't mention in my last letter, the packages that I sent you Saturday. I had the things nicely arranged in one box, but the man at the sub-station of the Post Office wouldn't accept it, as it weighed over four pounds, so I divided them into two boxes. They contained -----

- 2 tubes tooth paste
- 2 " shaving cream
- 2 cakes soap
- 1 piece music
- 1 box chocolate plantations
- 1 " hard candies
- 1 " Lotus wafers
- 1 " [Anolas]
- 4 cakes sweet chocolate
- 2 packages gum.
- Around the same time
- I sent a package of

Bonne nuit encore,
et pas de mauvais rêves.

More hugs, kisses and love for you, my own.
